The Department of Geosciences at Stony Brook University invites applications for a tenure-track Assistant Professor faculty position within any specialty of the general field of Geochemistry. We seek a candidate with the potential to augment or build upon one or more of the department's current research strengths in crystal chemistry, environmental geochemistry, experimental geochemistry, isotope geochemistry, low temperature geochemistry and theoretical geochemistry and who will be an effective teacher in undergraduate and graduate courses in the areas of geochemistry and general geology, hydrogeology, mineralogy or planetary science. Details of the department's areas of research emphasis and current facilities may be found at http://www.stonybrook.edu/geosciences [2].

The successful candidate must have a Ph.D. in the geosciences or closely related field at the time of appointment and preference will be given to those with related post-doctoral experience. The successful candidate must also have the clear potential to establish an internationally recognized, externally funded research program that would include mentoring of graduate and undergraduate students.

Applicants should apply by January 10, 2014 through AcademicJobsOnline.org at http://academicjobsonline.org/ajo/jobs/3305 [1]. Applications should include a cover letter, CV, research and teaching statements and the names and contact information of three references. If needed, mail applications should be addressed to Geochemistry Search Committee, Department of Geosciences, Stony Brook University, Stony Brook, NY, 11794-2100, USA. Questions should be directed to the Chair of the Search Committee, Prof. Scott McLennan (Scott.McLennan@stonybrook.edu [3]).
